The aim of this seminar is to introduce the main patterns of public policy in the region of Central and Eastern Europe (CEE). The central question for discussion is how to explain variation in public policy and performance across different post-socialist states and across time. The welfare state development in CEE will be discussed in the context of transformation processes including privatization and changing labor relations. The expected outcome of the course is for students to understand the main challenges and institutional choices of the public policy in CEE.
