Complementary Program

Wednesday 19.09.2018 12:30-13:00, Room 02.55

Volker Adam (Martin-Luther-University Halle-Wittenberg):
Open Access und das Recht auf Zweitveröffentlichung – eine Chance für die Turkologie (Presentation in German)

The Specialised Information Service (SIS) Middle East, North Africa and Islamic Studies is a project of the University and State Library Saxony-Anhalt and has been funded by the DFG since 2016. We support scientists working on Turkic Studies, Ottoman or Turkey related Studies with literature in all relevant languages.

Our full text repository MENAdoc (<http://menadoc.bibliothek.uni-halle.de>) currently contains some 15,000 freely accessible documents with a focus on the Middle East and Islamic studies. Apart from digitized volumes from our classical holdings and contracts with publishers, the SIS also offers a service for scholars to re-publish their works. Contributions from anthologies or periodicals can be promoted for a second time on the green road of open access.

The SIS offers to examine researchers' works for possible secondary publications on MENAdoc. It also organizes the digitization, publication and cataloguing of contributions. In this way, Turkology has the opportunity to use an established specialized platform with a Middle Eastern focus, which does not serve any commercial purpose and keeps access to knowledge open.

Full text recognition, high-quality metadata and indexing in popular catalogues complete our service and make contributions (re-)published on MENAdoc internationally visible. It is also possible to create thematic collections that are openly accessible anytime.

The presentation shows what we have achieved so far and gives an insight into the workflows for the creation of Turkish, Ottoman and Turkic contributions to MENAdoc.

Autobiographical Writing in the Ottoman Empire and Turkey - Aims and approaches for future research

Organizers: Christoph Herzog & Richard Wittmann

Over the recent years autobiographical texts from the Ottoman realms and the Turkish Republic have enjoyed an increasing interest among students of the history and literature of the region. The participants of this roundtable discussion would like to explore new directions of research on life narratives and invite to an open discussion on possible forms of future research on an individual and collaborative level.

Participants:

Hülya Adak – Istanbul
Elke Hartmann - München
Christoph Herzog - Bamberg
Börte Sagaster – Nicosia
Akşin Somel – Istanbul
Richard Wittmann – Istanbul
