

To all professors
and academic staff

Dear members of academic staff,

As you are certainly aware, the Bavarian state government has instituted extensive curfews and restrictions on movement. The university board of management has therefore decided to reduce on-site operations at the university to a bare minimum. Effective immediately, all non-academic staff whose presence is not absolutely necessary are to work from home for an initial period of two weeks. Continued email and telephone communication is of course guaranteed.

All non-academic staff whose on-site presence is necessary for the maintenance of the University of Bamberg's limited operations have already received a confirmation of employment certificate from the personnel department that will ensure that they can get to their workplaces unhindered. On request, the personnel department will also be able to issue equivalent certificates for academic staff, insofar as this is deemed necessary.

Take good care of yourselves and stay healthy!

Best regards,

Dagmar Steuer-Flieser
